Senator Chandler Introduces a Bill for Coinage of Silver.

Mr. Sherman Names a Committee to Select the Committees of the Senate-The Hawaiian Cable Project.

REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTA WASHINGTON (D. C.,) Dec. 5.— The session of the Senate was brief again today. Its only features were the introduction of a bill by Senator Chandler for the free coinage of silver when England, France and Germany should enact similar legislation; a resolution by his colleague, Senator Gallinger, declaring it to be the sense of the Senate that it was unwise and inexpedient to retire the greenbacks, and a short speech by Senator Call of Florage of the recognition of the FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

REGULAR SESSION.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—SENATE:
There was a good attendane when the Seniate met at noon today. The first bill introduced was one by Senator
Mills of Texas, for the coinage of silver in the Treasury.

A bill was introduced by Senator Chandler of New Hampshire, for the coinage of silver at a ratio of 15½ to 1, the bill to become operative when England, Germany and France pass similar Idws. It was listened to with great attention by members of the Sen-great attention by members of the Senate.

Petitions from Florida for recognition of Cuba, and from the Legislature of Montana against a further issuance of bonds were presented.

A resolution offered by Senator Call of Florida, was adopted, calling upon the Secretary of State to send to the Senate correspondence relating to the case of Gen. Sanguilly, an American citizen, sentenced to life imprisonment for alleged complicity in the Cuban revolution, and directing him to procure a copy of the record in the case, if it is not on file in the department.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire introduced a resolution declaring it was the sense of the Senate that it was unwise and inexpedient to retire greenbacks. Senator Mitchell of Oregon introduced a resolution which was agreed to, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury to inform the Senate why the construction of the public building at Portland, Or., for which an appropriation was made by the last Congress, was not proceeded with.

He drew a graphic picture of the ruin, misgovernment and barbarous cruelty against which the Cubans were contending, and their long struggle for freedom. He described former revolutions, and declared the progress against yranny made by the native Cubans, who maintained, as this country had maintained in 1776, that just government must derive its authority from the consent of the governed, entitled them to recognition as belligerents, and the neutrality of other nations. He considered it an outrage that the United States should not hold out an encouraging hand to these struggling for independence. "This government," said Senator Call, emphatically, "is responsible for many outrages that have been committed. I do not mean to say the President and Cabinet are responsible, but the atthete of this government, meativals, with capinet are responsible, but the atti-tude of this government, negatively, by not recognizing revolutionists in our ports and territory, is maintaining to-day the power of Spain in the island of Cuba."

In conclusion, he described Cuba as the Queen of the Antilles; the future center of a confederated republic that would include all islands of the West Indies, and called upon the Committee on Foreign Affairs to consider his resolution in the aprirt of the forefathers of the nation, and report it favorably at an early day.

Among the bills introduced in the Senate was one by Senator Mills, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to have all the silver in the treasury coined into subsidiary coin, and providing that when the revenues of the government shall be insufficient to meet the current expenses of the government, the Secretary shall issue non-interest-bearing legal-tender treasury notes in amounts sufficient to cover the deficiency and pay out the same in the current expenditures of the government, and, also, that when the gold reserve in the tense. sufficient to cover the deficiency and pay out the same in the current expenditures of the government, and, also, that when the gold reserve in the treasury shall be in excess of $100,000,000 and legal tender notes are presented for redemption in coin, they shall be redeemed in either gold or silver coin, at the discretion of the Secretary. The bill also provides that when the reserve shall fall below $100,000,000 the Secretary shall redeem the notes in silver. It closes with a declaration for the maintenance

A bill was introduced by Senator Morrill for the appointment by the President of a register of copyrights to perform the duties now performed by the Libraian of Congress. The measure is the result of the disclosures of the library book-keeping methods made by the Spofford investigation.

Senator Call presented a bill to prevent and punish the control of elections by corporations engaged in interstate commerce; also, a bill requiring the railroad companies to pay employes injured in the discharge of duty their salaries while disabled, and, in case of death, to continue to pay the salary to their widows during their natural lives.

Senator Faulkner introduced a bill authorizing the Governor of Alaska to grant liquor licenses, and providing for the punishment of those engaged in this traffic without such license; also, a bill authorizing the Governor of Alaska to create precincts and appoint justices of the peace and constables. Senator Sherman introduced, by request, a bill to provide for the re-organization of the line of the army so as to consist of three regiments of field artillery, twelve regiments of infantry. The bill follows the same general lines as Representative Outhwaite's bill of last year, and is devoted especially to the artillery service.

At 1:20 o'clock the Scnate went into executive session, and, at 1:35 o'clock, adjourned until Monday. The Senate in executive session confirmed the appointment of Matt W. Ransom as Minister to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 .- The Republican Senators met in caucus this morn-ing, immediately after the adjournment of the Senate. Senator Sherman, the chairman, announced the selection of the following Senators as a committee mmittees of the Senate: Senators Mitchell of Oregon, Tel-ler, Cullom, Quay, Platt, Chandier, Pet-tigrew, Gear and Pritchard. This committee was confirmed by caucus. When the committee has selected committees, the caucus will be called together to take action upon the arrangements. The committee is about equally divided as to silver, four being for free coinage, to silver, four being for free coinage, while Chandler is very friendly to silver Senator Mitchell, chairman of the committee, says that it will hold its first meeting on Monday, immediately after

The Senate Democratic members held adjournment.

The Senate Democratic members held a caucus today, there being twenty-six Senators present. The caucus decided upon the nomination of Senator Harris for President pro tem, in case the Republicans should decide to attempt to select one of their number for this office. The caucus also authorized the chairman, Senator Gorman, to appoint a steering committee, six of whom shall be old members. This committee is to confer with the Republican Committee on Committees for the purpose of reaching an agreement as to the Senate committees. There were several speeches on the policy of the organization of the committees and all favorable to permitting the Republicans to take them in case they decide that they wish to do so. No opposition was developed to this plan. Six members of the old Steering Committee, who are to be on the new committee, are Senators Gorman, Cockrell, Harris, Blackburn, Brice and Jones of Arkansas.

The labor unions are taking an interest in the Committee on Immigration as well as the Labor Committee, and are endeavoring to bring about the selection of committeemen who will favor Senator Lodge's bill, which, among other things, would bar illiterate foreigners from entry. It is learned that the Hawaiian government, desirous of the establishment of this cable connection, has guaranteed a subsidy of $40,000 a year. This makes the prospect of enacting the new measure more favorable than ever. The lighthouse vessel was well-provisioned and it is likely that if the weather is fair, the President will not return to Washington before the 12th or 14th of the month. The diliatory policy of the palace people is continued, apparently in the hope that a hitch will occur which may put an end to the accord of the powers. Ambassadors do not attempt to deny that the accord of Europe is liable to be disturbed any moment, and it is to attain this end ment, and it is to attain this end that the Turk is working assiduously night and day with all the skill and subtleness of Eastern diplomacy. The irritating rumors about the "real designs" of Great Britain are taken to about the doings of the German Ambassador, and vice versa. So the game continues, with the Turks still ahead in spite of the efforts of apparently happens, there will be a decided change in the situation by Saturday.

The Bedouins, as a reprisal, are trying to capture several Europeans to hold as hostages. The meeting took up the memorial which was prepared by Judge Lawrence and approved by a special committee of five members, and seventy-two of the 120 pages were passed upon favorably, when an adjournment was taken until tomorrow. A special committee was also appointed for considering the rates of duty on wool desired by the growers as a permanent policy, and submitted for consideration a proposition to restore, with some changes, the wool duties of the McKinley tariff law as a means of temporary relief.

"On foreign affairs the President is Democratic, and therefore right. His attitude is that of the vast body of his countrymen. "These fifteen States have all shown pronounced silver or Populist leanings, and the latter just now mean free silver. If so, there is no reason why they should not put up Morgan of Alabama. The South would go for him with a whoop, and there is scarcely a silver man unacquainted with his straight-forward record in favor of bimetallism. In short, I should regard him as a dangerous opponent on a free-silver platform, if our party has not sagacity to see the drift of events,

If good sense prevails, and the Republicans come out for silver, and show that they are in earnest, no Democratic candidate could have a show against them, for bimetallism and protection are logically connected. The driver and Mrs. Wright, a woman from Klamath Falls who was the only passenger, were ordered off the stage, and Mrs. Wright was made to deliver up money amounting to about $4. The lady and driver were then made to walk down the road a short distance, while the robber 'put the mail in a grain sack and, throwing it across a

The robber was broad-shouldered, well-built fellow, who used good language. When he stopped the stage he stood behind a large boulder. Campbell said he could not see a gun in the hands of the robber and thinks he was armed with a pistol. He did not cut open the letter-pouches when ordered to do so. It was

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Belgium has refused to surrender Harry Russell, the postoffice robber and Ludlow-street jail breaker, to the United States authorities and that notorious criminal will in all probability never underge trial in this country. Belgium's answer to Secretary Oiney's request is to the effect while regretting its inability to do so the Belgium government cannot permit the extradition of a fugitive from justice, unless his crime is among those mentioned in the extradition treaty before making the request, Secretary Oiney asked the advice of the Attorney-General as to whether or not he could properly ask for Russell's extradition. An opinion delivered by that official was to the effect that the crime of postoffice robbery, with which Russell is charged, could not be charged as within the list of crimes held by the treaty to be extraditable and he advised against the preference of any request. This opinion was concurred in by the law officers of the State Department. Notwithstanding this weight of advice, Secretary Oiney decided to make an attempt to secure the fugitive.

All the State Department can now do

All the State Department can now do will be to instruct the American Minister to watch Russell closely if he escapes imprisonment as a result of his alleged crime in Belgium. Should he leave that country, the government under whose jurisdiction he enters will be asked immediately to detain him preparatory to his extradition. The department has instructed its representatives abroad to keep a sharp lookout for Killoran and Allen, who broke jall at the same time, and will make every effort to get hold of these two men, notwithstanding its ill success in Russell's case.

ULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) PORT TOWNSEND (Wash.,) Dec. 5. Mrs. L. H. Jamieson, who created uch a tremendous sensation in soci-ty circles in Victoria two years ago by eloping with Arthur Turner, the rich son of the Minister of Finance of the province, has returned from the City of Mexico to her father's home. Beneath the tropic skies of the Southern republic her dream of love was rudely broken.

Then Turner's funds began to run low and he was forced to hard work, which was not funds began to run low and he was forced to hard work, which was not congenial, to support the woman who had left husband, children, home and friends for him. His father refused to give him further financial aid unless he would desert his companion. The usual result happened. Through the influence of his father, on condition that he abandon the woman, Turner secured a position in a London bank, whither he went, leaving Mrs. Jamleson to shift for herself, penniless and a stranger in a strange land.

Then, as she was about to propose a reconciliation with ner husband, came the news that he had been granted a divorce in San Francisco on the grounds of desertion and infidelity and had been awarded her three children. Then came the cruelest shock of all, her babe sickened and died. The mother being without means to meet the burial expenses, generous natives contributed funds to furnish a proper resting place for the innocent result of the elopement.

Penniless and almost friendless the miserable woman was in despair. For her dally bread she was dependent upon charity. But there yet remained one person whose love reached across thousands of miles of mountains and plains—her aged father's door was open to her and in his house she was promised shelter. Funds were sent by the loyal parent and last night the old man, who had almost reached four.

Young Arthur Turner's escapade with Mrs. Jamleson astounded society circles of British Columbia two years ago. His family was prominent 'n all society events and Turner was much sought after by the belies of Victoria. Mrs. Jamleson, who was born in Callfornia and raised in this country, is a woman of remarkable beauty. She was a leader in society. The two were fond of each other's company, but no one suspected anything improper.

One Saturday afternoon in August, 1893, there was a fashionable outling in one of the gorges near Victoria. Mrs. Jamleson and Turner were there. They left for home in a small skiff. Quietly they drifted out into the straits and darkness veiled their movements. They were not seen again for some time, but the next day the boat they used was found floating in the straits. It was at once thought that both had been drowned. Mrs. Jamleson's husband was almost frantic with grief.

Judge Morrow Reprimands Two of Judge Morrow severely reprimanded two of the jurors for filtring with Howell's step-daughter, Mrs. Edith Greene. This filtration began several days ago. It was resumed today and continued during the day, until the hour of adjournment. Even Judge Morrow could not hold the attention of one of the men while the customary admonition was given a adjournment. The affair received something more than unofficial recognition in the result that followed an incident at the morning session.

While a witness was on the stand Attorney Campbell suddenly accused Secret Service Agent Harris with employing a code of signals to coach witnesses upon the stand. He accused Harris of nodding incessantly to the witnesses as they appeared, and the attorney declared he could construct the action to be nothing more or less than a signal.

Harris notly answered the charge He denied that he was making signals to anybody and charged that whoever said so was telling an untruth. Judge Morrow silenced the controversy with a rebuke on both sides. He had observed, he said, altogether too much nodding in the courtroom and he wanted, it stopped at once. While Judge Morrow was talking he was looking at Mrs. Edith Greene.

The testimony in the case today was cumulative and presented no great features of interest it involved the handling and persistent distribution of bogus coin by Howell. This testimony went so far as to charge him with an attempt to pass a dangerous counterfeit half-dollar on a Stockton car conductor only two months ago.

George Maysel, a butcher of Stockton, swore that Howell attempted to pass a bogus dollar on him and when he refused to accept it was given genuine money. Deputy Sheriffs Penjamin and Cassidy of Stockton identified the marked coin that Howell had given to tradespeople and then another important witness in the case was placed on the stand. ador Bayard Has Cabled the Contents of Salisbury's Note. The Refusal of Great Britain to Arbitrate Will be Laid Before

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—A special to the Times-Herald from its Washington correspondent says that war between the United States and Great Britain is threatened. It can be averted only by surrender on the part of England. The contention over the Monroe doctrine has reached a stage which will produce the gravest anxiety on both sides of the Atlantic until the facts become known. If the American Congress will support the President, and of this there can be no doubt, Great Britain will soon be given the choice of surrendering or fighting.

can be no doubt, Great Britain will soon be given the choice of surrendering or fighting.

"Upon authority which cannot be questioned," reads the dispatch, "it is known that this government has received a cablegram from Ambassador Bayard giving briefly the contents of the note which the Marquis of Salisbury has mailed in reply to Secretary Olffey's dispatch of last July. This reply is in substance a refusal to arbitrate any of the territory eastward of the Schomberg line. Moreover, Lord Selisbury raises a new case. He now contends that the Schomberg line was not arbitrarily run; that it was, in fact, located upon authentic data, and that it can be proved by the records, the treaty descriptions and the maps, that it correctly represents the western limits of the territory which Great Britain acquired by cession from Holland.

"Receipt of this information caused some excitement in the Washington government. Secretary Olney at once proceeded to confer with the President about it. They agreed in their opinion concerning it. This opinion was that the British Premier was trifling with the merits of the question; that he was attempting to evade and delay direct response to the principal issue involved, and to bring on a controversy between the two governments as to historical records and topographical facts. Such controversy, the President and Secretary agreed, if once entered upon, might run an indefinite length.

"The programme which the President and Secretary now have in mind is, first to ascertain the wishes of Venezuela in the premises. If Venezuela is willing to arbitrate on the Schomberg line, then the mission of the United States is, for the time being, at an end. Venezuela has repeatedly refused this and it, is not expected she will give in now. Once being assured of Venezuela's unwillingness to submit to England's pretensions, the Presid nt will refer the whole matter to Congress at an early day for such action as that body may see fit to take. "Congress, as the only war-making power, will be left to its own determination, uninfluenced save by facts. When this moment arrives the executive will have exhausted his resources. The future course of the contention will rest with the national legislature. It is expected, however, that Congress will at once authorize the President to issue an ultimatum that will cause issue an ultimatum that will cause issue an ultimatum that will cause England to back down or fight."

The United States Consul Saves the City of Canton.

REGILAR ASSECLATED PRESS REPORT.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Mail advices received by reliable persons in this city from Canton, China, today give details of an attempt to capture the city of Canton by a secret organization for the purpose of establishing an independent government. The writer says:

"The plot was exposed October 22, when the attention of the United States Consul was called to a suspicious telegram from Hong-Kong to a branch house in Canton, concerning the shipment of certain packages. The authorities were notified and the packages, which proved to be five barrels of pistols—and—ammunition,—labeled "cement," were seized on their arrival. On the same steamer, from Hong-Kong came 400 men, who expected to aid in the revolt. The officials, however, captured seventy-five of them. The revolutionists had no weapons, but it was learned that they were to be supplied by friends in this city. This seizure of arms and the capture of those implicated completely thwarted the attempt, and the authorities are now making diligent search for the leader as well as for more weapons. "It is said there are thousands in sympathy with the movement. The Hong-Kong papers speak of it as a 'patriotic movement,' and worthy of support. The plan of the organization, which originated in Hong-Kong, and was taken up in Canton, was, first, to capture the city treasury; next to demolish the Viceroy's palace. By this timic the design of the constitution of the measures to hold the city. "The movement has involved the Christians to a considerable extent and great excitement prevails, especially inside the city, near a chapel which had been used, unknown to the missionaries, as a sort of rendezvous for some of the conspirators."

A considerable amount of interest has been aroused regarding the Ministerial Union, which, during the past few months, has taken an active part in certain city affairs. The numerous resolutions presented by that body to the City Council have stimulated a desire to know of whom the union is composed and what its purposes are.

The City Ministerial Union of Los Angeles, as it is officially known, was organized about five years ago. It has about sixty or seventy members, all of whom are either present or former pastors. About four-fifths of them are at present engaged in active pastoral work. All, or nearly all, Protestant denominations are represented in the organization. Nearly all the Protestant pastors are members of the union.

Among the principal objects of the association are the uniting of the various churches in moral reforms and the rendering of aid in the reduction of crime and intemperance.

The officers of the organization include Rev. W. A. Knighten, pastor of Bethlehem Congregational Church, secretary, and Rev. A. C. Smither, pastor of the First Christian Church, chairman of the Executive Committee and vice-president.

The union, in its resolutions presented to the City Council, has not expressed itself in favor of recognizing that the social evil is something that cannot be done away with entirely. On this question, however, there is said to be some difference of opinion among the members, the majority favoring that the evil be not recognized as necessary.

A. Times reporter called to see Rev. W. A. Knighten, president of the union, yesterday, and asked in reference to the work of the union, and whether it were not a fact that the union has been misrepresented before the public. "This discussion over the social evil and other questions in connection with the union, that has of late attracted a good deal of attention," said Mr. Knighten, "was started early in the present year, when, without my knowledge, a position was circulated in the neighborhood of where I live east, of Alameda street, and north

"The petition was presented to them.

"The petition was presented to me with the request that I take up the matter. I insisted that It take up the matter. I insisted that the question be put before the Councilman from the Eighth Ward, but they would not hear to it. I then consented to take the petition, and the next day, which was Sunday, presented it to the congregation of my church for signatures. A little later it was presented to the Bethlehem Congregational Church, of which Mr. Finley is pastor. More signatures were obtained, and the next day it was presented to the City Council. The matter was also presented to the Ministerial Union, and resolutions were adopted by that body indorsing the petition. These resolutions were presented to the 'City Council simultaneously with the petition.

"The public no doubt understand how the question was agitated, pro and company that the petition was appointed. All of the resolutions on the question which have been presented to the City Council from time to time, have been adopted by the Ministerial Union by unanimous vote.

"Since the agitation began, I have council from time to time, have been adopted by the Ministerial Union by unanimous vote.

"Since the agitation began, I have been harassed by private detectives and others, who have endeavored to divert me from the line I started cut to pursue. I have been urged to take the matter to the District Attorney's office, or to act on it through the constables or other officials. It has been plainly intimated to me that if I would move out of the district in question a fine house would be furnished me to live in. Intimations have been made that the church or my house would be burned. Once when there was a suspicious fire on Alameda street near Panning, when the firemen were returning from putting it out, I heard some of them remark that our church would go next. I merely mention this to show to some degree what the situation has been.

"Since the agitation began, however, the disgraceful occurrences which I go next. I merely mention this to show to some degree what the situation has been.

"Since the agitation began, however, the disgraceful occurrences which I have referred to, have not been so frequent, and the sahoons near here have been conducted better.

"There has, I believe, been a serious misapprehension created in reference to the purposes of the union regarding the treatment of the social evil. We are opposed to the centralization of it as af present, where the high rental exacted from those poor women yields a revenue of $72.000 per year to two or three individuals. The rental charged is exorbitant and we believe that as at present handled it affords a highly favorable opportunity for the use of the revenue for a political corruption fund to be used as a balance of power in municipal campaigns.

"Again the fencing of it in as at present makes it a disreputable attraction to many men, some of them scarcely more than boys. This feature would be done away with if those poor creatures were not herded in here.

"My impression is that the opinion of the ministers generally is that the social evil, being morally prohibited by the scriptures, should not be tolerated by the city, particularly when prohibited by the statutes of the State."

THE BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

Secretary Manley of the Republican National Committee sent out a circular several months ago to Republican leaders all over the country, suggesting a change in the basis of representation in the national convention. He embodied in the circular the plan proposed by Mr. Scott of West Virginia me three years ago, which would give each State and Territory and the District of Columbia two delegates at large instead of four, and each con nal district one delegate instead of two, with one additional dele for each 7000 votes cast for the Republican ticket in 1892. present basis of representation is four delegates at large for each State and Territory and two delegates for each congressional district, irrespective of the political complexion of eithe States or districts.

The present basis of representation is manifestly unfair to the Republicans of those States which cast the heavies Republican votes. The Southern States where comparatively few Republican votes are cast, and which have seldom given any electoral votes to the Republican ticket, enjoy the same ratio of representation, and consequently have as much influence in the convention according to the number of congressional districts, as have the great States of the North which cast the vast majority of Republican votes. As an illustration, it may be mentioned that Alabama, which has not had a Republican State ticket in the field for several years, nor even held a Republican present plan to twenty-two delegates in the national convention, while Kansas, which has a solid Republican delegation in Congress, is entitled to only twenty delegates

The proposed change in the basis of representation is designed to correct this inequality by giving to those sec vote a proportionately larger influence proposition certainly seems just though may appear to inflict a hardship upon Southern Republicans, whose loyalty to their party under all forms of discouragement is deserving of the highest commendation. But this consideration is sentimental rather than practical. The Southern Republicans would stand upon the same plane as those of the North if the proposed change were made, instead of having, as now, a great advantage.

If the plan proposed were adopted, would make some important changes in the relative numerical strength of the various State delega-For instance, the New England States would gain twenty votes by the change; the North Middle States, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, would gain 219 votes; the South States, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri, yould gain thirty-nine votes; the Western States, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and the two Dakotas, would gain forty-eight votes; the Rocky Mountain States, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado and Nevada, would lose five votes, and the Pacific States, California, Oregon and Washington, would gain eight votes. The Southern State State would make the largest gain, and would have 126 delegates instead of 72: Pennsylvania, 97 instead of 64: instead of 46; Illnois, 80 instead of 48; Indiana, 52 instead of 30: lowa, 45 instead of 26; Missouri, 48 instead of 34; Michigan, 49 instead of 28. and Wisconsin 32 instead of 24. Yesterday morning right and early this alert officer bagged a burglar whose work had not yet been reported to the police. The prisoner proved to be a thief of time and gave next morning where the birds were singing in the orange groves of Southern California, and that it would be possible in the summer's heat for the resident of Los Angeles to leave home in the afternoon and be bathing in the Great Salt Lake the next evening. Smith, according to the evidence at hand, broke into the public school building at Eighteenth and San Pedro streets, Wednesday night. He carried off as booty four clocks, two chenille table-covers, and a penknife belonging to one of the teachers.

All the evidence of the burglary that the principal of the school, Miss Anderson, and her corps of assistants had was the absence of the stolen articles and an open door at the back of the building, which was found ajar by the janitor yesterday morning.

Before news of the burglary reached the Police Station, Detective Steele saw Sleuth Steele generally knows that he was a thief, and that the bundl ne was lugging was stolen property. He accordingly resolved to arrest Smith or auspicion. Smith, however objected to train-loads of coal going west, daily, for all time to come. All that trade is open to the company that will now fill the gap, and that it has not before such summary proceedings, and made a gallant fight for liberty. Finally, with a gallant fight for liberty. Finally, with the assistance of some by-standers, Steele got the nippers on the culprit and capducted him and his bundle to the station. There it was found that the bundle contained two table-covers and a 'clock, such as the public schools are furnished with. Smith could not satisfactorily account for his possession of the articles, but the mystery was solved a little later when word came from the Eighteenth and San Pedro streets school that four such clocks and two table-covers were stolen from that building. The captured clock and table-covers were later identified as the ones stolen the previous night. Smith has not yet been arraigned.

A more cheerful atmosphere pervades the entire Police Station, from Chief Glass down to the colored janitor, since prospects are brightening for ridding the city of a number of the pestiferous sneak-thieves and burglars who have been conducting such a thleving business here this autumn. It is only a question of time when the majority of them will come to grief if they continue to steal and rob.

(The Investor, Dec. 5.) The Los Angeles Times yesterday celebrated its fourteenth birthday and took advantage of the occasion to give an interesting retrospective sketch which showed how great oaks from little acorns grow.

Ruggedly independent, the paper has plenty of enemies, but its prosperity sufficiently indicates that 'its friends and supporters are in the large majority. Long may it wave under its able leadership.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. — (Special Correspondence of The Times.) Two of the most important matters to come before the present session of Congress are of special interest in the West, the Nicaragua Canal and the Pacific Railroad bonds. As to the former, the board's estimate that the project will necessitate the expenditure of $133,472,893, and the report that it is neither practical nor advisable at the present time, created surprise and consternaime, created surprise and consterna-ion, but by no means settled the ques-ion. Senator Mitchell of Oregon boldly lays: "The Nicaragua Canal will be built by the United States Government It costs $500,000,000." Senator Chand ler of New Hampshire said: "The Nicaragua Canal will be built by somebody, and it is absolutely necessary that it be built and controlled by the United States, no matter what the expense may be." Searcher Charler continued. "I States, no matter what the expense may be." Senator Chandler continued: "I am not surprised that the report of the Nicaragua Canal Commission should be unfavorable to the canal project. The first official act of President Cleveland in 1885 was to hold up the treaty with Nicaragua by means of which the United States would have already had the canal constructed and in operation. Cleveland, in like manner, at the beginning of his second term, suspended the Hawaiian treaty and again catered to un-American influences. Cleveland is opposed to the Nicaragua Canal and to un-American influences. Cleveland is opposed to the Nicaragua Canal and when he appointed a commission to report upon that project he selected men undoubtedly to carry out his ideas."

There is a general feeling among the Republicans that the canal is favored by a large majority of people, and that the present Congress should go upon record in its behalf. This is intensified the present Congress should go upon record in its behalf. This is intensified by the present strained relations existing between Central American republics and European powers. Venezuela is reported as ready to declare war upon England, in which event the Central American republics, it is thought, will combine. It is difficult to believe that the matter has progressed as far as reports indicate, but there is sufficient strength in the assertions to bring this phase of the canal question prominently before the people, while there is no doubt as to the commercial advantages to be derived from such a highway between the oceans.

As to the Pacific railroad matter, there will be divergent views, although at present there is a somewhat vague understanding that there must be a settlement and that there must be a continuous line of railroad. uous line of railroad. Secretary Hoke Smith, in his official report, urges the collection of the debt due the government and the creation of a great through line from the Missouri to the Pacific, which was the original purpose of the government leading to the issue of sub-sidy bonds.

He states that the government is al-ready out $117,436,000 upon these roads, and that the first mortgage bonds only amount to $64,613,000; that the property is worth vastly more than the first mortgage bonds, and that the govern-ment interests can be protected, if nec-essary, by taking up these bonds. Sen-ator Thurston of Nebraska, who is con-sidered as high authority upon the question, will, early in the session, in-troduce a bill differing materially from any of the plans yet suggested; that is, for Congress to confer jurisdiction upon one United States court over the entire line, to entertain foreclosure proupon one United States court over the entire line, to entertain foreclosure proceedings; to then proceed with a sale of the entire road upon a bill to be prepared by the government, requiring the purchaser to buy and operate the property as an entirety. He believes that the United States will thus realize in cash all or nearly all that is due, and that the question will be permanently settled. This plan will meet with strong opposition from those members who favor control of the railroads by the government, as it will place it entirely in favor control of the railroads by the government, as it will place it entirely in the ownership of a private corporation. There will be another bill introduced, seeking to have the United States buy the lines and thus make a foundation for future legislation looking to the governmental ownership of all railroads.

The failure of the Dawes commission to accomplish the object for which was created, will bring the Indian que after rectining facts that show a complete fizzle, so far as the work accomplished is concerned, the commission recommends that the government take jurisdiction over the five nations and establish a court with jurisdiction over their affairs, without very clearly defining how this is to be accomplished. Secretary Smith does not shed a great deal of light upon the perplexing questions in his report. He dwells upon the necessity for eliminating politics from the management of Indian affairs; and of conducting each reservation upon strictly business principles, with the object of making each Indian self-supporting and capable of assuming the responsibilities of citizenship. advocates three commissioners of Indian affairs instead of one, that the tenure of office of Indian agent be during faithful performance of duties, and that the classified service be extended over all subordinate positions. Upon the over all subordinate positions. Upon the subject of allotments, he believes that the present law that an Indian becomes a citizen immediately upon receiving an allotment, is wrong, that allotments should be made long before reservations are opened. Each Indian should be settled upon his homestead and be self-supporting before citizenship is conferred upon him, and then he should be treated precisely as other citizens; that parts of reservations should be sold, the proceeds to beused in improving allotted lands. He favors the leasing of the glisonite beds in the Uncampaghre reservation. He submits the Dawes proposition for an anomalous government over the five tribes. This is by no means satisfactory to the majority of Western men, especially those who are interested in the opening up of the Indian Territory. There is a growing belief that to allow five separate nations to exist in the center of the United States, paying no taxes, but upon the contrary receiving support from the government, is not a desirable course under any circumstances. It is impossible to predict what will be done, but it is certain that the Indian subject will be very thoroughly discussed, and better understood than ever before, while it is not improbable that the five tribes will be forced to sell their lands by proceedings in the nature of condemnation.

It has been generally predicted that the tariff question would receive no more consideration than will be necessary to create sufficient additional revenue to provide for the deficiency now existing in the treasury, but now that the members are here and in session, it looks as though the tariff would become an important issue, notwithstanding the fact that President Cleveland will almost certainly veto such a bill. New members, especially, are anxious to put themselves upon record. In the West, the wool interests demand a hearing, and from a careful poll of the House, there can be no doubt that it will be accorded. Speaker Reed, while anxious to confine legislation, as far as possible, to absolutely necessary measures, cannot safely use the power the Committee on Rules gives him, and certainly cannot afford to antagonize the Western members, who are unanimous in favor of a tariff upon wool, coal and lumber. The silver question may be kept down, although there is a very respectable element anxious that the Republicans should take action upon it, but the tariff will certainly be most vigorously discussed. It is not expected that a very general revision will be made, for this would undoubtedly bring forth the exercise of the veto power and would defeat the desires for protection of certain leading interests, but those interests that have been especially affected by the Wilson bill will get as much assistance as it will be possible to grant.

ing Interests, but those interests that have been especially affected by the Wilson bill will get as much assistance as it will be possible to grant.

Carl Browne (the erratic bloviator and California crank,) who acted as lieutenant for Coxey's commonweal army, is recruiting a regiment in the Blue Ridge Mountains, it is his intention to go to Cuba and be a soldier. He has succeeded in getting 200 men with guns and ammunition, but has no money. He will appear in Washington in about a month and will then, with great flourish of trumpets, offer himself and his followers to the Cuban committee here, who will promptly send him back to Blue Ridge Mountains, as even the recognition of the Cubans as belligerents will not authorize the shipment of troops to the island. There is a great deal of talk about a vigorous foreign policy and several members are preparing to make reputations by stirring speeches denouncing England, and Spain. There is no particular casus belli. It is simply considered a popular move. The matter of the Bering Sea award will call forth some very able remarks not at all complimentary to England. Senator Chandler of New Hampshire, who has already through his newspaper issued a proclamation of war against England, will be the leader in the Senate, while the House contains several members with speeches already prepared as to the Bering Sea, the Alaskan boundary and the Venezuelan questions. While the present session may not transact a very great deal of business, it will be full of interest as is always the case when a majority are serving their first terms and therefore striving for reputations. The sentiment in favor of a vigorous foreign policy is genuine, but it will be made the basis for a great deal of "ilingo-ism."

While it is still early to discuss Presidental possibilities with any degree of certainty, every one is interested in the present situation, which is very much more favorable to Maj. McKinley than it has been before. Hon. H. Chys Evans and the Republican members from Tennessee, disg

Reed's position as Speaker of the House is an exceedingly difficult one to fill without creating emmittes, and outside of New England, his strength with the rank and file is not great. With New York pledged to Gov. Morton, Senator Quay will be a doubtful quantity, and the Pennsylvania delegation might go to any one except Harrison. With the right to select his own delegates, Maj, McKinley will have the Ohio delegation soidly, and in addition to this, he will undoubtedly control the west and northwest, where the protection sentiment—is strong. The Southern vote will not be relied upon by any of the candidates, and, as it counts for nothing in the electoral college, it is not in a condition to demand any favors or consideration, while the West is entitled to, and will receive, pretty much what it wants. With the East divided, and the South divided, and each of the middle States having a candidate, the West can declare the nomination especially so, as it has shown a disposition to waver, and must be held in line at almost any cost. It has been the principle of protection that made the Republican party uniformly successful for so many years, and its chief exponent ciple of protection that made the Republican party uniformly successful for so many years, and its chief exponent is Gov. McKinley. Every change in the situation makes him stronger, and Southern disaffection will assist him. The East is afraid of the South, and will oppose any man upon whom the South unites, hence the recent utterances of Southern politicians will help Gov. McKinley in the East.

The case of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. the United States, involving the title to the "Overlap" lands in the vicinity of Los An-lep's has been advanced and set for the first Monday in January. This does not, however, indicate that it will be Representative Doolittle of Washing-Representative Doollittle of Washington talks with no uncertainty as to what he intends to obtain from Congress. He says: "The people of the Pacific Slope are intensely interested in the vigorous prosecution of the Nicaraguan Canal, and hope that Congress will act upon that matter without delay. The improvement of our consular service is also greatly to be desired, as is the upbuilding of our merchant marine. Then there is the Alaskan boundary line dispute, in which Canadians are trying to get the best of us and shut us out of the approaches and waterways leading to the valuable gold fields that citizens of this government have begun to develop on an extensive scale. We will insist upon our rights up there, and I think this Congress is likely to give forth no uncertain sound upon the subject."

Senator Clark of Wyoming wants a tariff on wool and lumber while Con-gressman Ellis of Oregon wants a tax of $1 a barrel upon beer.

After confessing judgment for $25,-744 in avor of the Globe National Bank, the company made an assignment to Frederick A. Holbrook, the secretary. The assets were given as between $500,000 and $600,000 and the liabilities between $350,000 and $400,000. The judgment was on two notes executed on November 18, one for $16,500 and the other for $85,000. The Sheriff took possession of the down-town factory and salesroom and allowed no one to enter but representatives of the bank.

tory and salesroom and allowed no one to enter but representatives of the bank.

Just before the closing of the office of the County Court two citations were obtained for the examination of the debtors. The petitions were flied by the Chicago Varnish Company and Victor Achelis & Co. of New York. Judge Yates issued the citations and made them returnable. Saturday morning. In the Circuit and Superior courts the insolvent company was the subject of five attachment suits for small amounts. The plaintiffs are the American Screw Company, the Hanson R. Van Winkle Company, the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, Schultz & Hirsch, and Heath, Wilbeck & Co.

In various forms the company has been in existence thirty years and its business has increased in volume every year until two years ago. Since that time, about the time of the general depression, the business decreased at an alarming rate. For several months the company has been embarrassed and was obliged to put a good deal of paper on the market. This concern is now an incorporated company. The officers are: A. H. Andrews, president; F. A. Holbrook, secretary, and A. H. Carey, treasurer. The company and Johnson said it was precipitated by the action of the bank in entering judgment on the notes of the company had been under a severe strain for the last two years and when the judgment for $25,000 was executed it was concluded it would be best to make an assignment for the beeft of its creditors.

make an assignment for the benefit of its creditors.

"During the hard times of the last two years," said the attorney, "the company has carried its usual large expense, the pay-roll amounting to from $1,000 to $12,000 each two weeks. Recently business has improved greatly, but the company has been unable to secure money to extend its business and get rid of stock which had accumulated."

Of the total indebtedness of the corporation, $25,000 is owing to the Globe National Bank, $40,000 to the Union National Bank and the remainder is distributed among the stockholders of the company, who have loaned money to the company, who have loaned money to the company, who have loaned money to the corporation, and various merchants in the lines of business with which the company was connected. The corporation has been a good customer of the banks and these loans were easily obtained. When the date for payment came it was found that the obligations could not be met and on November 18 the debts were cast in the form of judgment notes. The Andrews company has done business with the Globe National Bank for years and it was with reluctance that the bank decided to obtain judgment on the notes they held against the company. It was seen, however, that the affairs of the company had reached a crisis and, in order to secure their money, the bank officials placed the notes in the hands of their attorney, James L. High, with instructions to proceed at once to secure collection. The formal entering of judgment was performed and the Sheriff was put in charge of the property.

Frederick A. Holbrook, the assignee, said: "This has come upon us like lightning from a clear sky. Our business was prosperous and at the present time we were in the midst of a very busy season. Our only difficulty was with reference to immediate funds. Notwithstanding the pressure we were under, we had placed ourselves in a position where we hoped to secure sufficient cash within forty-eight hours to carry us by the urgent demands of our creditors. We were carryi ficient cash within forty-eight hours to carry us by the urgent demands of our creditors. We were carrying, of course, a heavy load, which began to be heaped upon us during the financial depression of some two years ago. The weight has increased somewhat, because business for a long time was not very active. Much to our regret, circumstances so shaped themselves that we were forced down under the pressure just at a time when the way seemed to be opening to a clear business run and a decidedly more prosperous season. The immediate cause of our failure was the judgment of $25,000. "We were just about to consummate a deal whereby we were to dispose of our school-supply department. Had this deal been put through before the judgment was entered we would doubtless have been able to cancel the notes held by the bank and thus put ourselves beyond the danger of financial disaster. Our property where the factory is located, at Twenty-second and Fisk streets, is worth about $200,000 and is subject to a mortgage of $90,000. Our aggregate liabilities are probably not in excess of $350,000, and our assets are twice that amount."

Back by Tyndall.

The mystic Tyndall approaches the tomb, not for keeps, but to show that superior beings like himself, who monkey with the infinite and impossible in perfect safety and freedom, are not bound to become cold, clammy corpses unless they give their consent. There is no "josh" about it, at all. J. McIvor Tyndall has the call on the keys of life and death. He says so himself. He is going to take the shuffee-off pass-key and admit himself to the vestibule of eternity. The mystic will tarry in this critical position longer than a box of pears will keep in a refrigerator car, and, after an absence of from thirty to sixty days from the jolts incident to a cruel world, he will bump along over the return road and be "with you once again," as William Tell remarked to the mcuntains.

The new woman and the poor, down-trodden old man were built for better destinies than decomposition, and Mystic Tyndall can prove it. He says he will permit himself to be planted under about ten feet of earth in Los Angeles during the first week in January. He is in receipt of a telegram from Dr. Archibald of North Dakota, now on his way to the City of Mexico, offering to assist in the operation. Dr. Thad Johnson of Pomona, also, is willing to assist. When Mr. Tyndall has laid on his back long enough for the bones to wear through the skin of the ordinary mortal, he will be jerked back to an admiring and awe-stricken world. The public anxiously awaits the "earth to earth" period in the coming triumph of Tyndall over Death.

Four different undertakers called on

In the police court yesterday Mrs. Mina Clark, a dressmaker, was arraigned for stealing a pair of eyeglasses off the nose of Miss Russell, a typewriter in Attorney Shinn's office. Mrs. Clark alleged that she took the "spees" because Miss Russell owed her for work and refused to pay. Failing to get satisfaction in any other way, she "attached" the gold-rimmed glasses by detaching them from the bridge of her fair debtor's pretty hose. Miss Russell thereupon advised with her employer and had Mrs. Clark arrested for petty larceny. The trial was set for December 12.

Where the Canaries Come From.
(Harper's Round Table:) A great many of our finest singers have come from Italy and France, but until we read it in an English paper some days ago, we never knew that Germany carries on a very large trade in the rearing and exporting of canaries, and that the largest establishment in the world for the breeding of these creatures is situated within the domains of that empire, away up in the Hartz Mountains of Prussia. From this and the few surrounding but much smaller nurseries, no fewer than 130,000 birds are dispatched every year to the United States and Canada; while in the same time at least 3000 go to Great Britain and about 2000 go to Russia.

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

A very unique and delightful "jewel tea" was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Ira O. Smith, at her residence on West Adams street, in honor of Miss Ida Coolbrith of San Francisco. The large table, where covers were laid for sixteen, was decorated in an exceedingly handsome manner. Upon the centerhandsome manner. Upon the center-plece, which was richly jeweled, rested a large cutglass bowl of pink carnations and maidenhair ferns, and jeweled bands were arranged in an artis-tic design, with ferns, over the cloth. Silver candelabra were placed at either end of the table and at each cover was a name card, in which was fastened a handsome stickpin, and which was

The three smaller tables were similarly decorated. The hall was pretty with feathery bamboo, and masses of roses, carnations and smilax were effectively arranged about the drawing-rooms. A bowl of delicious punch was placed in the hall. Lee & Reynolds catered for the affair.

Mrs. Smith was assisted in receiving by Mmes. Burdette Chandler, Willoughby Rodman, F. McDaniell and Mrs. May McLellan. Each guest wore some beautiful and historical jewel, and related the history thereof. Among the many interesting stories recounted was that by Mrs. Bartlett of a necklace which she had purchased in Egypt, made of beetles set in Etruscan gold. Mrs. Margaret Hughes wore a necklace which she had purchased in Egypt, and to which was attached a fascinating tale. Mrs. Galpin related a beautiful story of a pendant which had formerly belonged to a French Princess, Mrs. Irving Blinn recited most charmingly Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poem. The Birth of the Opal." Mrs. C. M. Severance told about many jewels which had been given her and had either been lost or stolen. Mrs. Page read an original poem on her birthday stone.

Mrs. Smith wore an elegant gown of black brocaded satin, with garniture of rare point lace, and a jeweled front, over a vest of old-gold satin. The guests were: Mmes. C. B. Jones, Frank Rader, Clifford Page, Kate T. Galpin, Myra T. Maynard, W. H. Perry, Modini-Wood, I. N. Van Nuys, L. C. Goodwin, Albert Crutcher, E. Wineburg, W. S. Bartlett, H. B. Wing, C. M. MET AND FOUGHT.

Two Local Politicians Engage in Fistic Battle.

Two Local Politicians Engage in a Fistic Battle.

Two "statesmen" of the Fourth Ward—H. C. Register, a deputy in the Street Superintendent's office, and Lee Moss, a lawyer—came to blows in front of the City Hall Wednesday evening. Moss met, Register and accused, him of working in the interest of Hervey Lindley's candidates at an election in an A.P.A. lodge. Register resented the imputation, and asked Moss to produce his proofs. Moss declined.

"Then I brand you as a liar," said Register.

"Don't you call me a liar," retorted Moss, swelling up and trimming his sails as if for a fight.

Register not only called him a liar, but followed it up by letting Moss have a blow on the jaw with his right duke, straight from the shoulder. Moss landed on the sidewalk with a "dull, sickening thud," but picked himself up immediately and made for his assailant with blood in his eye. Again Register's right shot out, and Moss again measured his length on the cold, hard cement.

Register was about as usual yester-day and exhibited no evidences of the fray except a pair of badly swelled knuckles. Moss kept pretty well in-doors, nursing a black eye and a lumpy jaw.

Future Recognition

At the First Christian Church Evan-gelist Romig preached last night upon "Future Recognition." This subject. "Future Recognition." This subject, said the speaker, is one of perennial and universal interest. The evangelist first discussed the objections to this theory, such as that men will be spirits there and not subject to the characteristics of this life, and that the absence of loved ones would militate against happiness there. These objections were offset. In favor of future recognition the evangelist cited the indestructibility of man's memory, the instances of recognition at the transfiguration, in the parable of the rich man and Lazarus and Paul's experience in Paradise. He then presented some of the teachings of the Son of God as bearing upon this question.

M'FARLAND TALKS.

The Ex-City Attorney Denies Certain

Charges and Explains Others. The livest topic of discussion about The livest topic of discussion about the City Hall at this time is the Boyle Heights cemetery proposition, which created such a rumpus in the City Council's meeting Wednesday, and con-cerning which there has been such great diversity of opinion. Health Officer Steddom declares that he will continue to issue buriat permits for the interment of bodies in the new cemetery until such action is taken by the City Council as will prevent him

m so doing. The man who is supposed to have engineered the scheme by which the Catholic Church outwitted the Council and established a cemetery while the said Council was waiting for a committee's report upon the advisability of allowing the church to do what had already been done is ex-City Attorney Charles McFarland.

When asked conserved.

of allowing the church to do what had already been done is ex-City Attorney Charles McFarland.

When asked concerning his connection with the matter, and the methods used to found the cemetery in question, Mr. McFarland replied by saying that he had been employed by W. R. Burke and several other gentlemen who are interested in lands in that part of the city, and who are also interested in getting an electric road over in the same locality, to see what solution there was to the question of the establishing of a cemetery in that neighborhood. Upon looking up the law, he found the only ordinance there was upon the subject was the one which was passed in 1894, which has been heretofore quoted in these columns, and which ordinance gave the exclusive power to the Health Officer to designate the location of and to grant permission to the Health officer to regulate the manner of interment, etc., and that he then made a formal application to the Health Officer for permission to establish a new cemetery, which was granted.

He also said that the statement which the papers said was made by Mr. Martin, an attorney, who represented the protestants, that the ordinance in question had been surreptitiously passed at the instance of Bishop Mora in order that he might afterward establish a cemetery in an underhand manner, as that he might afterward establish a cemetery in an underhand manner, as he had done, was silly and nonsensical, he had done, was sin-as an examination of the ordinance will show that it is a very long one, occupying probably three columns of newspaper, and is an ordinance pro viding for all the health, quarantine and cemetery regulations of the city of Los Angeles.

Mr. McFarland said that this ordinance was gotten up by the former Board of Health in connection with Dr. Powers, the Health Officer, who had mpiled it from the different ordin-ces in regard to public health he had

As far as he (Mr. McFarland) knew, there was no reason why the matter of locating cemeteries and the manner of burial of dead persons should not be delegated to the Board of Health, and the Health Officer, and as for the location, no matter where the cemetery was located, it would always meet with objections from some people, and he thought that inasmuch as Evergreen cemetery was already located in Boyle Heights there was no reason why additional cemeteries should not be established in its immediate neighborhood; that this land was only about 1200 feet from Evergreen Cemetery and was upon the extreme eastern edge of the city, and was about the least objectionable of any location which he knew of in the city limits.

Speaking of the legal status of the case, Mr. McFarland was satisfied that the cemetery, having been properly established by the Health Officer in accordance with the ordinance, the Council could not now prevent burials therein unless they also stopped burials in all the cemeteries of the city. And while the City Council has undoubtedly the power to regulate burials of the dead in the city limits, and the establishment of cemeteries, yet, that such power could not now prevent burials therein unless they also stopped burials in all the cemeteries of the city. And while the City Council has undoubtedly the power to regulate burials of the dead in the city limits, and the establishment of cemeteries, yet, that such power could not be exercised arbitrarily, but must be upon the broad grounds of public health, he thought it would be impossible for any one to show that it was any more injurious to the public health of the city to bury the dead in this new cemetery than in the Evergreen Cemetery, just adjoining, and that should the Council attempt to discriminate between the two cemeteries and allow burials in one and not in the other that such action. discriminate between the two cemeter-ies and allow burials in one and not in the other, that such action would be illegal discrimination, which would not stand.

In conclusion the excited attorney said that the gentlemen who had employed him were large property-owners in the vicinity of the new cemetery, and were interested in building up that section of the country which they claim is now of practically little value, and that by the establishing of this cemetery they hoped to get the Masonic cemetery established in its neighborhood, and that they had promises of a subsidy not only from Bishop Mora, but also from other property-owners in their neighborhood toward the building of an electric road which they thought would follow the establishment of this new cemetery, and which they thought would greatly increase the value of all the property in that neighborhood.

Meanwhile, the present City Attor-

walue of all the property in that neighborhood.

Meanwhile, the present City Attorney, according to instructions received by him from the Council, substy dratting an ordinance, by the terms of which, the health officers will not be allowed to issue burial permits for the interment of bodies in any cemteries other than those new established, and recognized by the Council as There is certain to be a lively discussion when this ordinance is placed on its passage next Monday, and both parties to the contest, will, no doubt, be present to observe the disposition that may be made of the matter.

Remarkable Caution Exercised by the Sewer Committee.

A large number of bids for street im-provement work were before the Sewer A large number of bids for street improvement work were before the Sewer Committee of the Council yesterday, for the construction of sewers in the Main-street district about the County Hospital. The lowest bid for this work was that of J. H. Deckweller, who proposed to construct the sewer for $1.18 a lineal foot. The committee's attention was called to the fact that the original figures in the bid were $1.48, and that the $1.18 was an interlineation. It was further stated to the committee that this bid had been given to the clerk after the time had expired, in which bids might be received by the Council. None of these objections were susceptible of proof, but the committee did not wish to take any chances in the matter, and so prepared a recommendation that all bids be rejected and new proposals advertised for.

(J. H. Dockweiler said last night in reference to the condition of the bid for the Main-street district sewer submitted by him that, as at first figured, he marked on the blank the price of the work as $1.48, writing it in ink but with light figures. Afterward, but before submitting the proposal, he discovered he had overlooked a certain feature in connection with the pipe, and the estimate would therefore be $1.18 per foot. He accordingly marked those figures heavily over the others. When he offered the bid in the City Clerk's office it was by the clock there after 11 a.m., the time for receiving bids. He immediately went to the Council Chamber and by the clock there it lacked a trifle of 11 o'clock. He accordingly submitted the bid.—Ed.)

ome Racy Suggestions Offered

A man who has traveled and seen a bit of the world is impressed with the fact that Los Angeles might greatly profit by adopting the customs of cerpront by adopting the customs of certain European cities with regard to several matters that every one admits are but crudely regulated and controlled in this, the wild and woolly West. The traveled man referred to is J. Behnke. Mr.Behnke addresses the City Council in a communication which evinces that he has all the courage of his convictions, and which is worded thusly:

"The undersigned hereby respectfully submits to your consideration and good judgment the following propositions:

"That the safety of the pedestrians be made more secure by providing for an ordinance which compels every owner of vehicles and wagons of any description to register the same at the proper office and receive in exchange a number, which is to be exhibited in plain figures on the sides and back of the wagon. "Any one not obeying such ordinence to be fined accordingly. This scheme works wonderfully well in the reset cities of Europe and contributes. tain European cities with regard to sev-

"Second—That the owners of bleycles be fined if the ordinance of carrying lights in the evening is not observed. It seems that our patrolmen are rather slow in the observance of such rules, especially when it concerns the better set.

"To exact also, numbers to be put on said bicycles, would prevent many a giddy cycler from escape after running over men like our venerable Chief Glass, as well as less official bones."

A CLERK'S MISTAKE.

An Error in the Street Superinten dent's Office Causes Trouble.

A mistake has just been discovered, made by a deputy in the Street Superintendent's office, which will perhaps cause some inconvenience to the parties affected before it can be rectified.

Some time ago the contract to improve Twelfth street between Burlington street and Westlake avenue was awarded to Moir & Smith, who later transferred the contract to ex-Councilman H. J. Smith. The work of improvement was completed and accepted by the Street Superintendent and the City Engineer. The City Treasurer was then instructed by the Street Superintendent to issue the necessary bonds. This was done, but it, now seems that an appeal had been made by various persons from the action of the Street Superintendent in accepting the work, and this appeal had not as yet been acted upon by the Council. Thus the bonds were issued prematurely, and are declared by the City Attorney to be illegal. They have not as yet been negotiated by the contractor, however, and nobody will suffer for the mistake. Some delay and inconvenience will be experienced before the matter can be adjusted. ties affected before it can be rectified.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

Judge Smith yesterday denied the motion to set aside the Braby indict-ment, and declared the grand jury to be a legally constituted body. The be a legally constituted body. The case has received most careful consideration, and the opinion read by His Honor was able and thorough, as the importance of the subject demanded. The attorneys for the defense declare their intention of appealing to the Supreme Court, but for the present the grand jury is firmly established, and is working away busily in its secret chambers.

preme Court, but for the present the grand jury is firmly established, and is working away busily in its secret chambers.

Following is the opinion of Judge Smith, which was read in denial of the motion to set aside the indictment:

The defendants were indicted by the present grand jury, and now move the court to set aside the indictments. They assign many reasons as a ground for their motion, the principal one being the all-ged fact that a grand juror, one Johnson, was not assessed on the last assessment roll of this county, prior to the time when the judges of the Superior Court made up the jury lists in January, 1895.

The question is a novel one, in our State, never, I believe, having been passed upon by the Supreme Court. Coursel for defendants cite People vs. Henderson, 28 Cal., R-465, as bearing upon this position. In that case, the fact was, that, at the time a grand juror was summoned he was not a citizen, but became such at the time he was empaneled; but it seems the defendant was in court with counsel at the time the grand jury were empaneled, and had opportunity to challenge the summand of the point as to what effect the placing of such person on the lists, and the disability being removed before he was drawn and summoned, was not involved in the case, and, indeed, the phrase, "Conceding the point to be otherwise good," is quite vague and may mean very little.

Counsel for defendants rely mainly upon the North Carolina cases, and it will be meessary to examine these at some length. The leading case cited is that of State vs. Durham Fertillizer Company, decided November, 1892, and cound in 16 S. E., Rep. page 231. It must be borne in mind that the North Carolina statute in regard to juries is entirely different from our own: That provides: "The commissioners for the several counties shall on the first Monday of September, 1892, and every four years thereafter, inspect own: That provides: "The commissioners for the several counties shall on the first Monday of September, 1892, and every four years thereafter, inspect the tax returns for the preceding year for their county, and select for jurors such persons only as have paid their taxes for the preceding year," and in the case cited above it appeared that three of the grand jurors who had found the indictment, had not so paid their taxes when they were draws. The grand jury in that case was drawn October 5, 1891: two of the jurors thus in default paid their taxes October 30 and 31 of that same month, and one had not tober 5, 1891: two of the jurors thus in default paid their taxes October 30 and 31 of that same month, and one had not paid his taxes at the time the indictment was found, and the court very properly quashed the indictment. A further objection was made to that indictment that the names of the grand jury were not selected by the commissioners at the time prescribed by the statute; and on that point the court says: "The statutory regulation of the manner of making up the lists from which the several juries are to be taken, or drawing the juries has always been held in this State to be not mandatory, but directory, merely." Citing many of their decisions, the court then says: "In the cases cited, and in others, the distinction is clearly drawn, between the objections, that the grand jury as a whole, was not drawn and constituted in the regular mode." The three grand jurors were clearly disqualified because the statute made the property qualification, dependent upon the fact that at the time they were listed they should have paid their taxes for the previous year.

But observe the difference between the North Carolina statute and our own. Here the statute in a section unown. Here the statute in a section under the caption: "Qualifications and Exemptions of Jurors," section 198, declares what are the qualifications of jurors, and among other requisites says: "Assessed upon the last assessment roll of the county on property belonging to him." and the following section 199, provides: "A persons is not competent to act as a juror who does not possess the qualifications prescribed by the preceding section or who has been convicted of malfeasance in office or any felony or other high crime." If there were no other section prescribing the qualifications of jurors this would seem to be plain and settle the contention against the defendant, but the defendant invokes section 295 of the contention against the defendant, but the defendant invokes section 265 of Code of Civil Procedure, which is as 10 code of Civil Procedure, who were seemed on the last part of Civil Procedure, who were assessed on the last assessment roll and also shall select those only who are not exempt from that the judges who are suitable and competent, who were assessed on the last assessment roll and also shall select those only who are not exempt from procedure integrity. It there were also proved in the pro but the defendant invokes section 205 of Code of Civil Procedure, which is as

not. In the North Carolina case re-ferred to, the commissioners deferred making the lists about one year from the time designated by the statute, and the court held it no objection to the jurges.

But let us see what logically follows the position of the defendant. If section 205 prescribes the qualifications of jurors as to property, then every other requirement in the section must be followed, and a departure therefrom be equally fatal. That section provides the judges shall take such persons only as are not exempt from serving on juries, who are not infirm, of good character, etc. Now, by this section, the judges are required to list persons not exempt from jury duty. Who are exempt? All judicial, civil or military officers of the United States, or this State, attorneys-at-law, ministers of the Gospel, school teachers, physicians, druggists, keepers of poor houses, hospitals and charitable institutions, sailors, express agents, mail arriers, members of fire departments, national guard, and many other classes, all these the statutes say are exempt, but such exemption is a personal privilege, and not a disqualification, as the very nature of the cases suggests; and, ladeed, our statute, Sec. 1075 Penal Code, expressely provides, "An exemption from service on a jury is not a cause of challenge but the privilege of the person exempted," so that if the defendant's contention is correct the listing of any of these exempt classes would invalidate the jury, when the statute expressely says it is not a disqualification. Again the statute invoked by the defendant applies alike to petit jurors, and what lawyer has ever thought to question jurors as to property qualifications the year before they are listed?

If we give section 205 the meaning contended for, then it is in conflict with section 198 and section 1075. This should But let us see what logically follows the position of the defendant. If secerty qualifications the year before they are listed?

If we give section 205 the meaning contended for, then it is in conflict with section 198 and section 1075. This should be avoided if possible, and the three or four sections, in reference to jurors, should be construed in part materia. This makes each section effective as to its particular object; the end is reached and no violence done in construction. Section 205 is the guide for those whose duty it is to make the jury lists, but not the test of competency of a juror. Section 198 prescribes the qualifications of the jurors, and that, as to property, plainly declares him competent if his name was on the last assessment roll, so that, assuming (which is not conceded) that you have the right or more so that, assuming (which is not con-ceded) that you have the right on mo-tion to set aside, to challenge a grand juror for lack of property qualification, I am of the opinion that the section juror for lack of property qualification, I am of the opinion that the section prescribing the qualifications of jurors is 198, and that if a juror is on the last assessment roll prior to the time when he is drawn and empaneled, it is all that is required; that section 205 is directory to the officers who have duties to perform in connection with obtaining jurors. The latter declares what the officers whose duty it is to make selection of names and persons shall do; the former section has directly to do with the person and personal qualification of jurors.

But I am of the opinion that a defendant cannot challenge a grand juror on the ground that he was not assessed on the last assessment roll of the county. Sections 895 and 896 declare the causes of challenge both to the array or panel and to individual grand jurors. Section 895 says: "A challenge to the panel may be interposed for one or more of the following causes: "First, that the requisite number of ballots was not drawn from the jurybox; second, that notice of the drawing of the grand jury was not given; third, that the drawing was not had in the presence of the officers designated by law." Sec. 896 provides that a challenge to an individual grand juror may be interposed for one or more of the following causes only: "First, that he is a minor; second, that he is an alien; third, that he is insane; fourth, that he is a prosecutor upon a charge against the defendant; fifth, a witness, etc.; sixth, actual bias."

The Legislature has seen fit to limit the causes of challenge to grand jury

he is a prosecutor upon a charge against the defendant; fifth, a witness, etc.; slxth, actual bias."

The Legislature has seen fit to limit the causes of challenge to grand jurors and that no challenge to grand jurors and that no challenge can be exercised for causes aside from those named in the statute, has been decided so many times by our Supreme Court that citation is not necessary. So also the causes for setting aside an indictment are enumerated in sec. 95 Penal Code, and like causes for challenge none others than those expressed in the statute can be urged; and what are they? "First, when the indictment is not found, indorsed, and presented as prescribed in the code; second, when the names of witnesses examined are not found upon the indictment: third, when a person is permitted to be present during the session of the grand jury when the indictment is under consideration, except as provided; fourth and last, on any ground that would be cause for challenge either to the panel or an individual grand juror." So that the ground alleged by defendant for setting aside the indictment is not one named in the statute, and therefore cannot be availed of under this motion.

The defendant has invoked the Bruor an individual grand juror." So that the ground alleged by defendant for setting aside the indictment is not one named in the statute, and therefore cannot be availed of under this motion. The defendant has invoked the Bruner case, reported in 92 Cal. R. In that case Judge Wallace of San Francisco, of his own motion, and while the Sheriff was not disqualified, appointed an elisor to serve a special venire to complete his grand jury, and a writ of prohibition was applied for to the Supreme Court to prevent the judge from trying a defendant indicted by such grand jury; and the court held that the court acted without warrant of law in summoning the talesman on special venire, and that the grand jury was an illegal body and the indictment void But observe, that the point was reached by the writ of prohibition, a writ never issued except in exceptional and extraordinary cases; only issued in cases where there is not an adequate remedy at law; and it was the decision of the court that the matter could be reached only by prohibition. The argument of the decision being that, since a judge had wholly departed from the forms of law for which the statute furnished no remedy, and that the effect of such action was so far-reaching and dangerous to the reputation, lives and liberties of the people, it would find a remedy in the writ of prohibition; but how stands the case at bar? Here the contention is that a party regularly drawn, summoned and empaneled as a grand juror had not the property qualifications mentioned in section 205 when the Judges placed his name on the jury list; as if, every time, by some oversight, there is a departure from the forms prescribed in obtaining juries, the extraordinary writ of prohibition must be appealed to to preserve the inalienable rights of the citizen. The statute is intended to furnish every remedy in a matter like the present. It is not extraordinary. It is simply one of the qualifications of a of causes that will support a motion to set aside an indictment.

But I hold that Juror Johnson was a qualified juror. When he was examined as to his qualifications in September last he swore that he was assessed upon the last assessment roll of the county on property owned in his own right; and that, in my judgment, was a full compliance with the letter and spirit of the law. From these considerations the motion to set aside is denied, and it is so ordered.

All About a Sick Horse.

A quarrel over a boarding-house and a sick horse was settled by Justice Young yesterday afternoon to the satisfaction of half the parties involved and the overwhelming disgust of the other half. Mrs. E. H. Woodham sold a boarding-house to Mrs. Mary D. Pomeroy, receiving a horse valued at $150 as part of the consideration. Soon after the bargain was concluded the horse was discovered to be a confirmed invalid. Mrs. Woodham did not appreciate that style of horse, and expressed a decided preference for the $150. The Pomeroys not seing it in precisely that light, the matter was referred to Justice Young, who gave Mrs. Woodham the $150 for which her soul yearned and left the horse for the Pomeroys to keep and cure. Mary was tried in Department Three, but the jury disagreed. The case was taken back to Department One, and was on trial yesterday. The evidence is stronger on this second trial, more witnesses having been subpoensed on behalf of the prosecution. Among them was B. C. If Mary is convicted, it will be apt to go hard with her, as it is said she has "done time" in the penitentiary before, having been sent up from Santa Barbara for pocket-picking. There are indications, as The Time rnere are indications, as The Times predicted there would be, of something like a temporary reaction from the rapid rush of business, in a southerly direction. out that they are too far away from the Courthouse.

The new Bullard block, on the site of the old Courthouse, which is the only large modern block north of First street, except the Phillips block, will not lack for tenants when it is completed. The Supreme Court has already engaged the entire top floor.

With the opening of North Broadway and the completion of the cut on First street, it may be expected that there will be quite a lively demand for business property on West First street, and North Spring street, and that some good business blocks will be erected on those thoroughfares,

The building in this section during the coming year promises to eclipse that which has been done in 1895. The beginning of settlement on the west side of the park will doubtless mark the commencement of a movement beyond the city limits in this direction, where there are many first-class sites for residence tracts, sloping toward the ocean.

For a charge not much greater than the cost of a certificate, the charge being graded according to the value of the property, the company absolutely insures the validity of a title and attends to all the details of a sale. The company is enabled to do this through its ownership of a complete plant, decriptive of property here, which is valued at $250,000. Among the 110 stockholders of the company are many of the best known citizens of Los Angeles. The paid-up stock is $400,000, and $100,000 cash has been deposited with the State Superintendent of Insurance.

Ance.

The president of the company states that titles in Los Angeles are, as a rule, in good shape, and are subject to much closer scrutny in case of a sale than in most of the States east of the mountains. Some of the titles in Sonoratown are somewhat "rocky," but this is not surprising when it is considered that much of this property has been transferred within the past fifty years for almost nominal considerations, and no records made of such transfers.

A MANUFACTURING DISTRICT. The owner of the oil refinery at Second and Beaudry avenue is, as mentioned in The Times, in trouble about tioned in The Times, in trouble about finding a location for his works, to the smell of which people in the neighborhood object. He suggests that a section of the city should be set apart for manufacturing purposes. This suggestion has been made several times by The Times during the past few years. The necessity of such a section becomes more apparent from year to year, as manufacturing industries are extended. The natural location for such a manufacturing district would be the section become bounded by the river. Seventh street, Alameáa street and the city limits. In this section there are few improvements of value, and not many improvements of any kind. Lots are held at very reasonable prices, and nine-tenths of of any kind. Lots are held at very reasonable prices, and nine-tenths of the property-owners would welcome the location of factories, as it would give a definite value to property which is now difficult to sell for any other purposes. The Council should discuss this matter before that section of the city becomes more thickly settled, when it would be necessary to push the factories further away. If Los Angeles is to become a manufacturing city, we must get over our squeamishness in regard to a little smoke and smell. At the same time, manufacturers should not be permitted to locate just wherever they please, and thus spoil our residence districts.

HOW BROADWAY WAS NAMED.

HOW BROADWAY WAS NAMED. Fred L. Alles has a petition in circu lation for the opening of North Broad way, after a plan recently proposed in The Times. Almost everybody to whom it is presented signs cheerfully, and this is of great significance, because the petition has so far only been presented to those who will be called upon to put up considerable sums of money in case the improvement should be undertaken.

By the way, Mr. Alles is responsible or naming Broadway. The way it came bout was this: In 1890, when he moved in Broadway, he found great difficulty about was this: In 1890, when he moved on Broadway, he found great difficulty in telephoning to people so as to explain that he was on Fort street, and not Fourth street, the two names sounding so much alike, so he circulated a petition for the change of name. The chief objection to the change arose from the fact that old historical associations clustered around Fort street, which was named after the old fort on the hill north of Temple street, ruins of the earthworks of which were distinguishable as recently as 1888. A prominent financier of German birth was specially determined in opposition to the change. Alles showed him that there were many citizens of foreign birth in Los Angeles who were unable to pronounce Fourth and Fort street so that one could distinguish between them, and cited the case of a Teutonic gentleman who gave his address as the corner of "Fort and Fourt' streets." Still the capitalist held out, until Alles oved to him that he himself could not concurre the two words with a dis-nctive difference in the sound, and pronounce the two words with a distinctive difference in the sound, and then he gave in.

The Council at that time was not only willing, but anxious, to do anything to boom Fort street, and the petition went through with a rush. It happened that there was one block on Toberman streat—a thirty-foot street—which the owner had widened to 100 feet, and called Broadway, so that the ordinance changed the name of Fort street to Broadway included a resolution changing the name of Broadway back to Toberman street. It was held by some real estate men that the change of name improved the value of property on Broadway fully 25 per cent. However that may be, it undoubtedly had some influence in helping the street to its present prominent position.

The movement for a subdivision of large ranches in the central and north-ern part of the State, to which reference has been made on several occa sions in these columns, continues to grow. According to the San Francisco grow. According to the San Francisco Chronicle, a syndicate has been formed to purchase and place on the market over a dozen of the largest and most valuable ranches in Northern California. From present indications the syndicate will close with 153,000 acres. All this property, which is now owned and cultivated by a few wealthy men, will be cut up into small ranches of twenty and forty agree and the proved. The Chronicle gives the following particulars in regard to this important transaction, in which C. P. Huntington is interested:

"To expedite the work of dividing the big holdings into small improved ranches, and thus attract settlers to California, a copporation will be formed, to which all the lands enumerated will be deeded eventually. The sale of the stock of the corporation will be used to pay the owners for their property, though many of the owners have signified their willingness to take the purchase price of their land, in part at least, in stock.

"Then the plan will be to subdivide the lands into classes. Lands are to be offered at prices that will represent their relative value, and whatever surplus is derived above the cost to the corporation will be distributed to the purchasers of the land when the first subdivision of 10,000 acres is closed out. The object is to sell the land at a very low figure, it being the ultimate and paramount object of all interested to secure a subdivision and occupation of the country by actual settlers.

"All the land will be divided into two principal classes, viz., land that is wholly unimproved and land on which the corporation will build houses and outbuildings. Each twenty, forty or eighty-acre tract will be improved and made ready for the occupant, and by contracting for ten or twenty such dwellings at a time, the corporation will reduce the cost to a minimum. The plan is to subdivide a tract of 19,001 acres at a time, and pending its subdivision the land will be kept in a high contracting for ten or twenty such dwellings at a time, the corporation will reduce the cost to a minimum. The plan is to subdivide a tract of 19,000 acres at a time, and pending its subdivision the land will be kept in a high state of cultivation, so that its value will not become impaired. Through each of these tracts of 19,000 acres will be built a main avenue. The form of the land sile is the contract of 19,000 acres will be built a main avenue. The form of the land sile is subtract of 19,000 acres will be built a main avenue. The form of the land is lead it is some than four miles wide, and sile than the sacramento. At the center of each that will be established a trading center or village. In connection with the general plan of subdividing the land is a proposition to set aside out of each tract of 19,000 acres a sufficient area for the dwellings and farmhouses of all the settlers in the tract. By placing the houses conveniently near each other on a tract of land set aside for the purpose, instead or settlers which it is thought, will prove a great attraction to prospective purchasers.

"C. P. Huntington has become interested in the colonization scheme and has promised to subscribe liberally to the stock of the corporation. Two features which are elements of the plan, viz., the erection of houses and the distribution of any surplus derived from the sale of the lands, entire was a meeting of all the leading bankers of San Francisco and representatives of the owners of the property in the Sacramento Villey. It is calculating the search of the state of the lands of the state of the lands of the lands in the State. It is also the most fertile land in the State, and includes the largest Spanish grants in the State.

"It is a popular fad with writers and speakers, he said, 'to say that we are now on the dawn of a new era but that statement was never more truthful than it is now, with the subdivision of those immense ranches assured. Intensive culture has superseded the old cattle husbandry of the old Spanish period, and it is all in response to an evolutionary force.'"

EASTERN IMMIGRANTS.

Real estate men in San Francisco continue to complain that settlers coming to Southern California from the East are shown more favors by the railroad companies than those whose destination is Central and Northern California is Central and Northern California.

East are shown more favors by the railroad companies than those whose destination is Central and Northern California. A land agent in San Fran-cisco tells his grievances as follows to the Cali:

cisco tells his grievances as follows to the Call:

"During this fall I took many trips from our Eastern offices in Columbus, O., to the country fairs, in order to come in contact with the farmers and talk with them personally. I found a strong sentiment in favor of coming to California. The cost of transportation is against us, however, and precious little concessions can be secured from the railroads west of Chicago coming this way, compared with those east of that city. In this one matter the agents of those large plantations in Virginia and other Southern States, which are being sold off in small tracfs, have a decided advantage."

THE NORTHERN CITRUS BELT.
Referring to the fact that citrus land in Stanislaus county is offered at $75 an acre unimproved, with water, or at $175 planted to orange trees, The Times recently called attention in this department to the fact that, judging by the insignificant results achieved in the Northern citrus belt after twenty years of experiment, the growing of oranges in that section could not be considered as an entirely safe and business-like venture. Commenting upon these remarks, the Visalia Delta says:

"It is true that the results attained north of the Tehachepi in twenty years are comparatively insignificant, but The Times might as well have said fifty or one hundred as "twenty" years. Orange trees have been grown in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys for twenty years, but more for ornament and experiment than profit. As an industry, orange-growing in the San Joaquin Valley dates back only about five years, and only in the last two years has much planting been done. This year about one hundred carloads will be shipped, and the time for sending out trainloads of oranges and lemons is not far remote. When that day comes, Tulare county will be glad to welcome the enterprising citrus-growers who have made the Southern part of the State what it is. And a visit to the bearing and younger orchards in this county now would convince Southern lemon and orange-growers that the present is the time to invest in citrus lands here."

It is, notwithstanding, true that for fully twenty years, if not more, orange trees have been shipped from Southern California in large quantities every season to the northern part of the State, especially to Butte and adjoining counties, where quite a big boom in orange-growing was inaugurated about nine years ago. The nurserymen of Southern California have derived large revenues from the sale of orange trees to the northern citrus belt—much larger revenues than the men who bought the trees.

The Times does not deny that oranges may be successfully raised, one year after another, ARID LANDS. Some of the papers are complaining that too many restrictions were thrown around the act granting a million acres of arid land to each of the States acres of arid land to each of the States and Territories which may choose to take advantage of the offer. The Secretary of the Interior, Hoke Smith, in his annual report, recommends that the Carey law, granting 1,000,000 acres of arid land to each State in which such lands are situated, be amended so that the grant be made to the State outright, and it be made responsible for the irrigation of the lands.

As The Times frequently stated, the idea of giving this land to the States at all is a grave mistake, which it is to be feared will not be found out until too late. The work of reclaiming these lands should be undertaken by the national government, to whom they belong, for the benefit, of actual settlers. The government has just as good a right to do this as to spend money on the improvement of rivers setters. The government has just as good a right to do this as to spend money on the improvement of rivers and harbors, and a majority of those who deny that right have ulterior objects in view. It would be difficult to imagine any step that would do more to increase the general prosperity of the country, and put money in circulation, than the expenditure by they government of a large sum every year on these arid lands, the value of which would be immensely increased, so that the government would get its capital and interest back without any risk, in addition to the vastly increased taxation derived from lands which are now desolate.

He was in San Francisco on business, as his family knew, and the coincidence of his placing the insurance the day before the fire was one of those strange freaks of good luck which sometimes happen. The "Sleuths" engaged upon the case have not found anything new, and it is likely that the incendiary will never be discovered. Certainly Mr. Maurice had nothing whatever to do with the fire, and is naturally indignant that he should have been suspected by any one.

PRESBYTERIAN FAIR.

Beautiful Booths Presided Over by

Fair Ladies.

The Hugus building on West Colorado street, was the scene of a church fair today, which was successful, con-Jair today, which was successful, con-sidered from every point of view. As an artistic effort, the ladies may con-gratulate themselves that they have fairly outdone themselves in the dis-play made, and the Aid Society of the play made, and the Ald Society of the church has certainly been industrious in the past year, or it would not be able to offer so many beautiful and useful things as evidence.

One of the most unique and beautiful booths at the fair is under the charge of Mrs. Glasscock. It is devoted to the sale of confections and dainty bon-bon boxes, and is decorated in pink and white morning glories, climbing over pink and white spindles. Mrs. Rand and Miss Blackfan superintend the sale of fancy articles, of which a

The art pillows and the "cumfy" kind were sold by Miss Bolt and Mrs. Cristy, and visions of restful ease were conjured by the display.

The embroideries were shown in a bower of smilax, chrysanthemums and ferns, whose presiding geniuses were Mmes. Walkey and Gardiner. Misses Fife, Ball and Katherine Gardiner.

But the doils! The eyes of the little people, and even the grown folks, were delighted by the artistic arrangement of lovely dolls, their pretty dresses and ravishing bonnets. Over this booth Mrs. Lamotte Holmes, aided by Misses Holmes, Young and Stein, presided.

Useful articles in the shape of house-wife aprons, kitchen aprons, bags, little and big, for every conceivable purpose, were displayed in the booth under the charge of Mmes. McCormick, Spooner and Chadwick, assisted by Misses Monfort and Adams.

The articles in Japanese and Alaskan work were heartily admired, many of them being novel. Paintings and etchings, as well as a large number of art objects of various kinds, were shown, and Mmes. Parker and Jordan were in charge. The ice-cream booth was beautifully decorated, and the dainties were served by a bevy of Pasadena's prettiest girls, Mrs. Lutz being in charge, and Misses Lutz. Blocki, Church. Dodworth. Beatrice Church. Edith Gardiner and Henrietta Vischer serving the guests with that dainty refreshment. In the evening a concert was given, and the rooms were crowded from the beginning of the fair, until the end. The profits have not yet been figured up, but it is thought that the sum total will be something handsome.

A Worthy Charity.

A charity which is being quietly and efficiently administrated, and for which those engaged deserve the heartiest commendation and support, is the Chinasa mission on Marango ayenne, where commendation and support, is the Chinese mission on Marengo avenue, where a school is conducted every night in the week by teachers who work year in and year out without a cent of salary, and for the good of the minds and souls of the heathen sojourners in a Christian land. There is no blowing of trumpets by these patient teachers, no public heralding of what they accomplish, but they are doing a noble work for which this Christian community is thankful, and in a way which is dignified, earnest, and devoid of that spirit of self-seeking that makes some charities matter of barter upon which those interested trade, to the disgust alike of saints and sinners. It would be a graceful act for Santa Claus to leave some shining golden coins as a Christmas present on the desks of these faithful young ladies at the mission, for the spirit that labors so faithfully over the alifn is as generous with the poor of cur own race and creed, and dollars aid good intentions to become material help.

As the time for the handling of this year's crop of oranges approaches, a retrospect over the field covered last year is not inappropriate, and such a retrospect was today made by Mr. Kernaghan, president of the Pasadena Association of Oranges-growers. The association has done much in Pasadena to unity the orange interest, and it is hoped that in the year to all the may do more. Although the crop will be materially smaller, in this vicinity, than that marketed last year, so many new orchards come into bearing that there will be no shortage. The ordinary to spare at Christmas dibactic was a consecution of the constitution of the spent his money without complete the constitution of the con claim on him, feeling that gifts to them were necessaries which it would be painful to him to go without. It is recommended not to suffer Christmas to degenerate too far into a mere swapping of merchandise among relatives. It is well to get some new life into it every year; to avoid too cut-and-dried an exchange of expected presents, and to resolce the hearts, or at least the self-esteem, of some persons who did not know until your gifts came to them that you had it in your heart to send them. Such unlooked-for Christmas presents are apt to be the ones that produce the liveliest emotions. They may be the merest trifles, but the news of a continuing affection which they bring is all the more gratifying, and all the more proper for Christmas because it is news.

How to Set Up a Christmas Tree.

As generally set up the Christmas tree is a rather shaky affair, top-heavy, and in constant danger of being tipped over when it is touched. If you want a substantial base for it, but one that will allow of its being moved easily without any danger of its being upset, go to some

THE RISE IN CAMPHOR. Speaking of the late rise in the price of camphor the Investor says: "One of the unconsidered trifies that the Mikado has picked up as the result of the Chinese war is the monopoly of camphor. That drug is produced only in Japan and Formoss, and, though a variety known as Borneo camphor is obtained from Borneo and Sumatra, it cannot compete with the product of the evergreen laurel of the Eastern Asiatic Islands. Inasmuch as camphor, apart from its many and varied therapeutic uses, is an essential ingredient in the composition of nearly all the new explosives, the demand for it is very large. The Japanese are well aware of the valuable monopoly they have blundered upon rather than sought, and have already began to limit the export by imposing duties. As a natural consequence the price of the drug has risen rapidly since the war came to an end, and bids fair to rise higher."

VEGETABLE SHIPMENTS. Shipments of celery from Southern California to Eastern cities are going along steadily. The Earl Fruit Company is shipping from five to six carloads a week. It is also making some shipments of cabbage. Cauliflower is not yet ready.

DRIED FRUITS. The past week shows no changes of importance in markets or prices. So far as raisins and prunes are concerned the State, as a whole, is pretty well cleaned up. The representative in this city of a large shipping house stated today that never in his experience has raisin and prune stocks been so well cleaned up as they were this year at this time. Some Eastern houses are carrying large stocks of dried fruits, but they are holding them firmly and will only let go as necessities of dealers require them. In prunes prices are likely to go higher on the Eastern markets, but no effect of that will be noticed here. Dried peaches are lower, being quoted on the Chicago market at 4½ to 5½ cents a pound.

and the French goods were shut out of the market.

"A great many of the more modern grocers are coming to use the California prune entirely, but there is still a large number who handle the French fruit exclusively. The aggregate of these has meant a large quantity of the foreign prunes to come here every year. California, however, has had no difficulty in supplying the total demand, although the available supply at present is by no means large, and higher prices may be expected."

nent of Agriculture at Washington has been keeping a record of the results of shipments of fruits from California and other States to Europe. Particular attention has been given to the efforts made to introduce California fruits in the English markets. The department recently sent out a bulletin concerning fruits, in which notice was made of the shipments of fruit from California to London. The following extracts are taken from it:

"For a new branch of international commerce—one requiring great care and

"For a new branch of international commerce—one requiring great care and perfection in shipments—the exportation of California fruits to London has been expected. The business is in its infancy and has, if properly managed, a profitable future. Shippers must remember that there is always a market in London for such luxuries; that no fruit should be sent there except when in perfect condition and properly packed, and that prices will be more remunerative for early fruits than for those that come later in the season.

"Fruit growers of the Pacific Coast, however, have special opportunities open to them in foreign markets for dried fruits, prunes and raisins, and for brandles and wines, which need only be cuitivated with energy and intelligence to achieve great results, and the development of these fruit industries is earnestly commended to them."

TUNNELING FOR WATER.

James L. Barker, who has been tunneling for water at Cold Spring Canyon, is more than satisfied with his success. At this time he has a flow of ten miner's inches. He intends to continue tunneling, believig that he can secure a still larger flow. The success of Mr. Barker gives the city government great confidence in the step that they have taken in preparing to tunnel in the immediate vicinity of his spring. The success attained assures the city of Santa Barbara of an adequate quantity of water for its necessities in the future. Plans are now well under way for operations by the city by the first of the year. Discovery of water in large quantities at Cold Spring Canyon is of as much value to this city as a gold mine would be.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS. respondence.) It is believed that the grand jury now in session here will do its duty in the matter of indicting the its duty in the matter of indicting the rascals who attempted to bribe Councilmen to vote for a certain water scheme. Clifton E. Mayne, who was indicted by the last grand jury for attempting to buy Council votes, evidently worked in such a raw, barefaced manner as to cexpose his supposed employer very plainly to the public gaze. That Mayne escaped trial, owing to the gross care-lessness of the county law officers in improperly impaneling the jury, has aroused suspicion in the public mind to uch an extent that any errors on their be attended with serious consequences. So general is the belief among prominent citizens that their rights have been usurped through the debauching of certain members of the Council, that they do not hesitate to say so plainly. The eyes of the people are centered on the grand jury room. The grand jurors are watched. Detectives are plentiful. Any communication between the grand jurymen and any of the parties suspected of water boodlery is noted. The very walls have eyes and ears, so it would seem, judging from the talk one hears. The public seeks justice. It doesn't care which one of the water schemers is hit. But it keenly desires that no guility boodler be allowed to escape. It realizes that this city is at a critical time in its history. If local legislation is to be abjectly surrendered to the tender mercies of a gang of unscrupulous boodlers San Diego will remain under a spell of uncertainty. be attended with serious consequences of uncrupulous boodiers San Diego will remain under a spell of uncertainty which will be a drawback of such seriousness as to have effect for years to come. The decent people of this community believe that the rotten sore of municipal: corruption, apparently existing in this city, should be speedily eradicated by heroic means. They want the crime of debauching the Common Council made so odlous that honest men may occasionally have a chance.

ATTEMPTED INCENDIARISM. A light was seen in the basement of W. Bowers's house at Ivy and Sec W. W. Bowers's house at Ivy and Second streets on Wednesday evening. The house was unoccupied. The light was caused by a bunch of oil-soaked rags. Before the fire engines arrived the fire was quenched by water from a garden hose. It was then discovered that another pile of oil-soaked rags and gunny-sacks was on the porch. A bunch of spoons in an oiled rag was found. The basement door had been smashed in. At first it was thought the fire was accidental. It was believed that the brother of Mr. Bowers had been to the house on Wednesday. This man says that he was not there. The firemen think the fire was of incendiary origin, and the police regard it as the work of tramps.

WILL BORE FOR OIL.

WILL BORE FOR OIL.

A company, headed by W. B. Kilne and John G. Hinkel, will sink oil wells on Point Loma. The public have some confidence in these men. They do not talk for a year or two about what they propose to do. They act. Mr. Hinkel, without posing in public, has recently come here, bought the land he wants, and has begun the building of a $60,000 brewery. He impresses people as being a business man. Therefore, when he proposes to sink an oil well, the public believes that the well will be sunk. Old-timers sit around and loudly remark what they are willing to do and then never do anything. The company has secured 200 acres of land, supposed to cover an oil basin, situated between Ocean Beach and Roseville. Wharfage facilities have been secured in Roseville. Experts have investigated the location and think that the indications for oil are very encouraging. The company proposes to buy machinery at once and go to work. TUNNELING FOR WATER. SANTA ANA, Dec. 5 .- (Regular Correspondence.) There came near being a death by drowning a few days ago at the artificial lake on West First street, the unlucky man being none other than E. W. Harmon of the Jersey other than E. W. Harmon of the Jersey dairy. Being a Jersey dairyman, of course Mr. Harmon was not used to water, hence his narrow escape from shuffling off this mortal coil. He had been across the lake at Co. F's target shoot and, on his way back over the somewhat dilapidated foot-bridge, he stepped on the end of a loose board and the next instant was precipitated with a splash into the water below.

He started straight for China, but soon changed his course and, as his head bobbed up out of the pool, he emitted a snort that fairly shook the earth and, with water running from his nose, ears and mouth, began to paddle over to some convenient stakes.

"BAD MAN FROM BODIE."

Frank Dooley, an obstreperous loafer and would-be tough, attempted, a few evenings past, to satisfy a grudge against the crew on the Santa Fe evening train to San Diego. Dooley was trying to steal a ride and the trainmen, discovering him as the train was pulling out, stopped and dislodged Dooley. This enraged him, and backing off a short distance, he picked up a rock and hurled it at the brakeman, as the train started up. The rock barely missed the brakeman and smashed his lantern into many pieces. A special officer of the Santa Fe road was near, and the victous brute was put inside, where his pasisons would cool. Today (Thursday) he was taken before Justice of the Peace Huntington, who found him guilty of assault and senteced him to sixty days in the County Jail.

The Times Went Like Hot Cakes i Atlanta-Fresh Exhibits.
A letter dated November 29, Frank Wiggins, superintendent of the California exhibit at Atlanta, was re-ceived at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. The letter reads in part as yesterday. The letter reads in part as follows:

"The last car of fruit has just arrived, too late for the big day. We had 90,000 people on the grounds yesterday. Very few missed the fruit, as the building was too crowded for them to see much more than the top of the tower. The car arrived in fair condition. If any more newspapers are to come please suggest that they be wrapped before being sent, as people are always willing to accept and carry away a nice attractive package or book, but are loth to take a newspaper, tell them what you will about it. The Times is done up neatly and attractively, hence it goes like the books."

The Chamber of Commerce will send to Mr. Wiggins today the following exhibits: Two boxes of this year's navel oranges, donated by the Earl Fruit Company; two boxes of belifiower and Baldwin apples, donated by John L. Chase; one box of lemons from the Ella ranch at Whittier; a lot of mammoth sweet potatoes, donated by Hugh Rule.
